CIRCULAR

Dear Volunteers,

In light of the current global situation, the NSS unit of Al Jamia Arts and Science College has made the decision to transform our upcoming seven-day residential camp into a virtual experience. This virtual camp will take place from December 21st to 27th, 2020. Despite the shift in format, we are committed to delivering an engaging and impactful program.

The virtual camp will feature a diverse array of activities aimed at enriching your knowledge and fostering a sense of community responsibility. Highlights include expert talks, projects, awareness programs, and cultural activities. Key activities include:

- Environmental Cleanup: December 22nd, 2020
- Cultivating Kitchen Gardens: December 23rd, 2020
- Rainwater Harvesting: December 24th, 2020
- Survey on Community Diseases: December 25th, 2020
- COVID Awareness Programme: December 26th, 2020

Your active participation and commitment to these activities will contribute significantly to our collective mission of social responsibility and community engagement.

REPORT

COVID AWARENESS PROGRAMME AT NEARBY AREA OF STUDENT'S HOME

In a proactive initiative to combat the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, students of Al Jamia Arts and Science College embarked on a seven-day NSS virtual camp named "OJASS," focusing on community outreach and awareness. Under the guidance of NSS Programme Officer Mr. Abdul Musabir, the students conducted an extensive COVID awareness programme in the nearby areas of their homes on 26/12/2020.

The primary objective of the programme was to educate and empower local residents on essential COVID-19 safety protocols, including proper sanitization practices, handwashing techniques, and the correct usage of masks. Recognizing the critical role of education in preventing the spread of the virus, the students engaged with community members, emphasizing the importance of adopting these measures in daily routines.

Throughout the outreach activities, which spanned several days, the students diligently collected contact numbers and details from the local populace. This data collection aimed to facilitate ongoing communication and the dissemination of accurate information regarding COVID-19 precautions and updates. By gathering this information, the students ensured that community members could receive timely and relevant guidance to protect themselves and their families effectively.

Mr. Abdul Musabir, the NSS Programme Officer, lauded the students for their commitment and dedication to public service during these challenging times. He emphasized the significance of youth-driven initiatives in spreading awareness and promoting responsible behavior amidst the pandemic. "The students of Al Jamia have shown exemplary leadership and social responsibility through their participation in OJASS," he remarked.

Local residents expressed gratitude for the informative sessions conducted by the students. Many noted that they now feel better equipped to navigate the pandemic safely, thanks to the practical tips and guidance provided during the awareness programme. The interactive nature of the sessions allowed for open dialogue and clarification of doubts, further enhancing community understanding and cooperation in following health protocols.

As the virtual camp concluded, the impact of OJASS extended beyond immediate awareness to fostering a sense of solidarity and collective responsibility among participants. The experience reinforced the importance of community engagement and education in combating COVID-19 effectively.

Looking ahead, the students of Al Jamia Arts and Science College remain committed to continuing their efforts in public service and community welfare. Through initiatives like OJASS, they aim to contribute positively to society, demonstrating that even in virtual settings, meaningful change and support can be achieved.

In conclusion, the OJASS virtual camp stands as a testament to the proactive spirit and dedication of Al Jamia Arts and Science College students in serving their community and promoting public health during these challenging times.
