REPORT

“Community Extension Work at Pearls Buds School”

Community extension work is part of syllabus for Msc Psychology first year. Community extension work gave the students to explore their field and apply their skills. This work is a vital component of psychology training at the postgraduate level. It gives space to apply their theoretical knowledge to practical level. Our students conducted a community extension visit to Pearls Buds School, Pattrakadavu. The visit aimed to engage with the students through interaction, entertainment, and observation, allowing them to gain practical exposure and emotional connection with the children. Our team departed from Perinthalmanna at 08:30 AM and reached the school by 10:00 AM. This work was assisted by psychology department faculties Ms. Adhisree and Mr. Naeem. Upon arrival, we were warmly welcomed by the staff and students.

The program began with an interactive session, during which we introduced ourselves and got acquainted with the students. Following the introduction, students organized a series of cultural programs including songs, action songs, and dances. The buds school students actively participated and displayed their talents through performances such as Oppana and Kolkali. The session was filled with enthusiasm, cooperation, and joy from both sides. Our students also conducted fun games and activities, which further strengthened their interaction and engagement with the students. Their energy, discipline, and creativity were truly commendable. Buds school students have cerebral palsy, ADHD, Autism, ID, Multiple physical disorders and Sensory disorders. As part of a token of love from department we provide 35 coloring books that make them happy. Our students' sessions were very effective to teachers and to those students, it created happiness and wellness in them.

During our visit, our students had the opportunity to explore various facilities of the school, including the Sensory room, multipurpose board, fine motor board, and finger dexterity and therapy room. It was a valuable first-hand experience that helped our students understands the importance of such environments in enhancing learning and development for special children. The students conducted various vocational activities such as detergent making and similar programs, which contributed to the development of their practical skills.

We were able to provide a supportive and cheerful atmosphere, contributing positively to their day while gaining deeper insight into their world. Overall, this community work strengthened their professional growth and reinforced their responsibility to contribute professional growth.
